"He flung down a bunch of keys." This definition of a great teacher was made by Dean Munro the text of a chapel talk on the "Keys of Education." Our professors have thrown down a bunch of keys for us to pick up—keys to the inner world of personality, to the outer world of nature, to the world above of God-contact, and to the world about us of human relationships.

We present you another ring of keys. Turn the keys to E. N. C.'s Diaries of Autumn, Winter, and Spring — unlock a surge of joyous memories of this school year — sports, studies, social activities, spiritual triumphs.

The shouting of "Open Sesame!" caused the doors of the magic treasure cave to fly open — but the master key, on the opposite page, unlocks all life's doors and the gate of eternal life. Keep it — cherish it.

President's Message

A wise man wrote his own epitaph for the special benefit of his son and ordered it inscribed on his tombstone so that all might read: "My son, if you would preserve the heritage which I leave to you, you must build it anew yourself."

The heritage of Eastern Nazarene College is given to each succeeding graduating class, and it becomes the solemn obligation of each succeeding group to make that heritage truly their own if it is to be perpetuated.

It is not enough to blame the next generation for squandering the inheritance; it is our noble responsibility so to convey that heritage that they will want to invest their all to carry on this glorious venture.

The Master Himself dared to risk His all with a chosen few. He gave them keys—keys to bind and keys to free. This binding and freeing was to extend into the next system of experience and was to have eternal significance.

This same bold adventure is being carried on at Eastern Nazarene College in the East, with the assurance of perpetuity residing only in her product—the Alumni. If Eastern Nazarene College does not produce lives that are holy and lives with a commitment, then her noble calling of holy service will soon be lost and her name but a memory.

To the Class of 1948 I say, we have given you the keys of this institution. What you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and what you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven. See that holiness with you is personal, powerful, and practical. Then Eastern Nazarene College will be a holiness college until Jesus comes.

Pictured below is the architect's sketch of Memorial Hall, men's dormitory, dedicated to the memory of those E.N.C. boys who gave their lives in the recent conflict, and honoring all those who served in the armed forces of our country. The construction of this our newest building was begun in March of this year.

Autumn

Dear Diary:

September—Well, here we are from twenty-seven states and five Canadian provinces . . . E.N.C.'s all-time high enrollment. Amidst all the confusion of unpacking bags, meeting new roommates, and rediscovering the Dugout, we took our places in the long line outside the registrar's office . . . oh, my achin' feet! Faculty Reception . . . Opening Convention with Rev. Martin . . . Freshman initiation . . . baseball games . . . spirited prayermeetings . . . all took up every moment. Indian summer at our college—an ivy leaf's throw from Boston—an unforgettable dream.

October—Friday nights crowded with recitals, Open House, and a Singspiration . . . fun, recreation, and Christian fellowship. Erno Balogh, world-renowned pianist and composer—charmed by the warmth of his personality, we thrilled to the magic of his music. Open House—after hours of scrubbing, polishing, and decorating our rooms, they emerged a wonder to behold . . . fortunately this disturbance comes only once a year . . . Even the Cardboard Palace was presentable. Mid-semesters came around all too soon . . . "Has anyone seen my 'musty' textbook?" "October's Bright Blue Weather" vanished in a whirl of football games, weiner roasts, horseback rides in the Blue Hills.

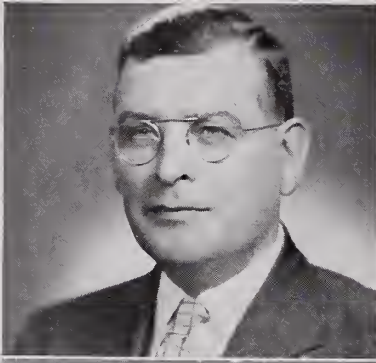

Diary

November — Fervent prayers heard early and late from the Canterbury, choruses in chapel and classrooms, and all our campus activities became centered in our Fall Revival . . . the prayer "Lead Me to Some Soul To-day" echoed across our campus—God became known to many of us for the first time as Rev. E. E. Grosse brought many soul-stirring messages.

Ah, yes, the Girls' Party, with the fellows providing the usual heckling, featured a birthday celebration for every month—as the lights went off and on . . . And then, those many class outings, club trips, and evangelistic meetings which gave us a look around our school's New England setting. The long-looked-forward-to Fall Party where we aired our "informals," promenaded with the "apple of our eye," and met Miss Crab Apple, Professor Winesap, and Wiggle the Worm . . . Then Thanksgiving dinner at home—seeing again old friends—and back to school. The inter-society football schedule ended with the Zetas winning a hard-fought tournament and the admiring glances of college coeds. Sorry, must stop to write to Santa Claus . . . See you next month.

The organization voicing student opinion, expressing student thought, and effectively carrying out the undertakings which affect college life is known as the Student Council.

The lack of society spirit has been a problem wanting solution for several years. This year's council put into effect a plan launched last spring to reorganize the Sigma Delta Societies into four new groups, dissolving the former three. The plan proved successful as the Kappas, Deltas, Zetas, and Sigmas marched forward to prove themselves this year.

As further solution to this same problem the Student Council inaugurated an all-round point system which put all society activities upon a competitive basis. In the spring at the annual society banquet a trophy was awarded to the society proving itself to be the all-round champion.

In keeping with the precedent set by last year's council in the matter of Friday night programs, a new series of fine art programs were sponsored this year. Among the artists appearing was Miss Patricia Connor, nationally known lyric soprano.

Vice-President Barbara Greene, acting as program chairman, was responsible for the enthusiasm and originality that made successful the Fall Party, the Christmas Banquet with its tangible expression of the true spirit of Christmas in the "Boxes for the needy of Europe," and the Spring Party.

Something new was added when the Council furnished an office from which student activities were to be carried on and where the council held its bi-weekly meetings.

All in all much was done to make another year successful.

BARBARA GREENE

The

Snapshots . . . dummy . . . artist's pen sketches . . . noisy staff get-togethers . . . endless proof-reading . . . last-minute rushes . . . all this "and a little bit more" went into the creation of the 1948 Nautilus which has been inching along for all these months.

Ever so many students stuck their fingers into the "personality-sketch pie," not to mention the scores of others who lent a hand. The photography editor patiently arranged for portraits and collected snapshots by the dozens; the literary editor pored over sheaves of papers, while the adviser ceremoniously passed her judgments. The associate editor scurried about doing the hundred and one things her "boss lady" requested. His creative ability turned loose, the artist excitedly produced, among other things, the personalized sketches for the club pages, the Diaries on the division pages, and the cover design.

The harassed student photographer took time out from his print shop to run about the campus "shooting" this and that. He even developed the film. And hats off to the commercial photographer who so willingly covered our special events, and who so carefully made our portraits. It seemed that nothing could disturb him.

All the while the business manager wrote a multitude of letters, canvassed nearby business sections for ads, and tended to financial matters in general.

May we present you with the 1948 Nautilus — the very best we could produce!

Camera

With seven consecutive semesters of All-American rating by the Associated Collegiate Press behind them, Al Stiefel and his '48 Camera staff strove diligently this year to maintain the high standard set for them. As a result of their efforts, combined with the understanding aid of Adviser Professor Spangenberg, E.N.C.'s bi-weekly publication has again this year been one of superior caliber.

The Camera is the undisputed highlight of every other Wednesday. Students eagerly read the concisely written news and interesting columns: Art Brown's inspirational "Seek Ye First;" Ken Miller's realistic "Candid Camera;" Becky Palmer's and Bill MacKay's sports columns; and Paul Clark's revealing "Back of the News." In keeping with Camera growth, two new columns have been added: Ken Sullivan's "Alumni in Action" and Mary Lechner's "Life Can Be——."

The paper, which offers excellent experience for future journalists, photographers and businessmen, is financed largely through advertising space sold to places of business patronized by E.N.C.-ers.

The purpose of the Camera staff has been to give a true picture of life in a Christian college.

GREEN BOOK

With the breaking of ground for the new boys' dormitory and the Wollaston Church, no other theme for this year's Green Book could be more fitting than the one chosen — building. The book contains many interesting features, among them a history of several E. N. C. buildings. Additional attractions are artistic division pages and snapshots of college buildings. In keeping with the theme, the book is dedicated to Mrs. Madeline N. Nease, college registrar, who has devoted years of sacrificial service to the interest of E. N. C.

The Green Book emphasizes that E. N. C. is growing spiritually as well as materially. We desire earnestly that our material goals for building will never obscure a deeper and more lasting process of constructing for God.

This year's Green Book has been prepared by Evangeline Smith, editor; Clifford Tazelaar, business manager; and a large staff.

Listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1947-48 are seven seniors from E.N.C., selected on the basis of character, scholastic achievement, leadership, and service to the school. Four English majors, two history majors, and one philosophy major received the coveted key this year.

This organization recognizes students from approximately six hundred colleges and universities in the United States and Canada, printing a brief biography of each member in their annual publication, which serves as an official directory for personnel managers and business executives.

Summing up all honors academic and extra-curricular, Who's Who is the climax to a well-rounded college career.

SIGMA E

They took our name from a hat — it was just like that — we became Sigma Delta Delta Society members! A heterogeneous group of one-hundred twenty-seven students united to form an “all-round,” “all-out” society whose trust is in the “common man.”

The Deltas did it. With our spirit of cooperation and unselfish desire to help others, we gave over $95 worth of food to those in need overseas, thus winning the Christmas food drive contest sponsored by the Student Council.

With our “Super Snooper” reporter we broadcast to an E. N. C. Thursday night dinner crowd the latest flashes on campus clashes. At Christmas time Santa and his reindeer came flying all the way from the North Pole to listen to the requests of our own Betty Lou.

LTA DELTA

As a society we have a keen interest in sports. Our girls, clad in blue and gold, won first place in the volleyball tourney. The Deltas have shown good sportsmanship and a fine spirit of cooperation in all the athletic activities.

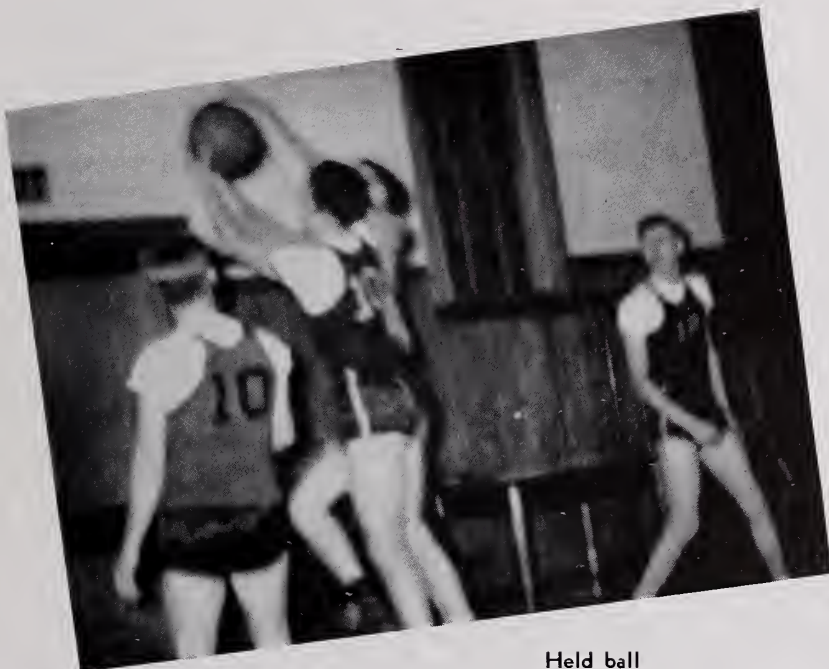

We combined our readers, singers, and instrumentalists with the Kappas to present our program entitled Ballad for Americans, a colorful musical cantata, featuring Donald Davis as baritone soloist.

Under the leadership of Arthur Brown, president; Priscilla Harvey, vice-president; Betty Dittrich, secretary; Robert Jones, treasurer; and Donald Reed, coordinator, the Deltas have come through their first year of activity more than successfully.

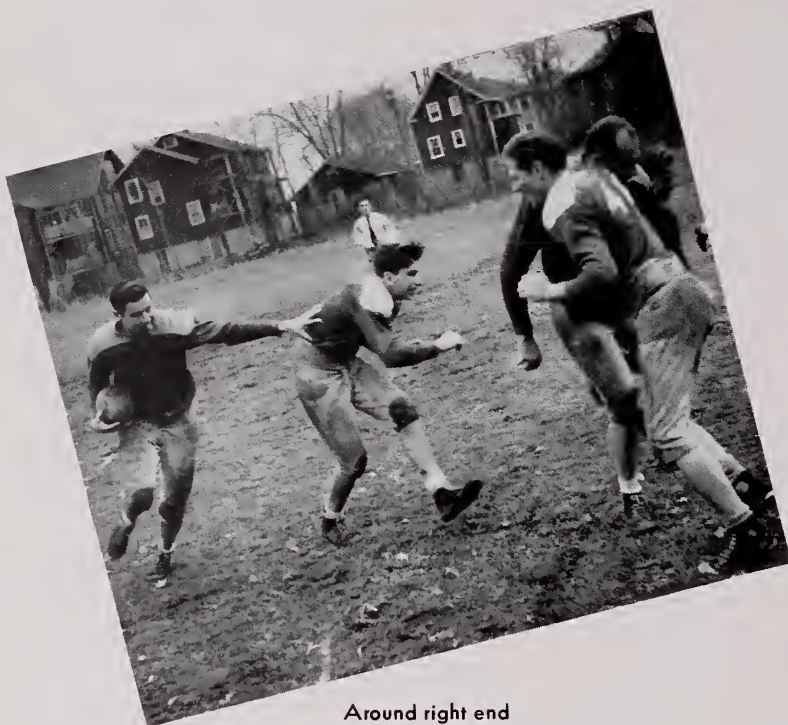

"Hurrah for the Yellow
Hurrah for the Blue
Hurrah for the Deltas
— Loyal and true!"

With newness of spirit, loads of cooperation, the desire to be "tops," capable leadership, and many other notable qualities, the Zetas of '47 set the pace toward winning the Society trophy.

Followers of the Kelly Green and Gold banner saw their boys capture the '47 football championship. Brooks, Retter, Parry, and Bailey paved the way in the first competitive sports program of the year. Our spirited and experienced basketball team was on the court all season fighting gamely for top position. "Stop the Zetas!" became the battle cry of all the opposition.

Our Zeta girls, not to be forgotten, were in there battling all the time.

Rebound missed!

LTA ZETA

Other accomplishments included the runner-up position in the Christmas "food for the overseas needy" and combining with the Sigmas to present their program of the year, "Cases from Cupid's Column."

Our zealous president, Paul Gray, was ably assisted by Grace Umstead, vice-president; Mary Belle Harris, secretary; Ken Hathaway, treasurer; Harold Parry, chaplain; Don Retter, co-ordinator; Edward Thompson, parliamentarian; and Vice-President Mann, adviser.

The "Zeta Zeal" knows absolutely no abatement —

"Gold and Green, Gold and Green!
Zeta Zulus, swamp that team!
Yea! Zetas!"

SIGMA DELTA

Growing pains, the symptoms of a yearling. The first year of Kappa history has been made. We have set a precedence of spirit, initiative, and cooperation. President Floyd Jones, the cool and collected administrator, led our new society through its most crucial stage. Society pride, spirit, and enthusiasm marks each member of the organization. With a song written by Pep Committee member Mitzi Eto, our Thursday rallies rang forth with tuneful band music and singing. Holding the line through hail, rain, and snow, Dolores Mulgrew and her team of indefatigable cheerleaders boosted the spirits of those Kappa football men.

Did you see the Kappa Warrior Maidens on that basketball floor? Boasting Parsons, Emery and Stephey, the battles were exciting, whether lost or gained. And did you see Fulmer's Blue and White hold forth in every game? The spirit of cooperation and attitude of good sportsmanship prevailed in all the teams this first year.

Fortunate were those twenty second-semester members. They were greeted with a Special Delivery Kappa welcome before leaving their own front door. South Station witnessed a group of Blue and White enthusiasts scanning the incoming travelers.

The Delta-Kappa Friday night program radiated patriotism from the beginning to the end. Don Davis, baritone, sang the solo role of Robinson and Latouche's Ballad for Americans, accompanied by a vocestration of nearly sixty voices and instruments. Greg Larkin directed the ensemble.

"Our best, our creed in all endeavors,
And loyalty prevail;
Smiles in loss or victory,
Dear Kappas, hail!"

Bradley tips one in Dilly-dally might rhyme with Sigma Sally, but the word is certainly not in our policy! The Sigma Sallies are progressive in every way, and the emphasis in our activities is "the satisfaction of the members."

Our dining hall programs, under the direction of Vice-President Jean Dorothy, gave amusement to all the diners. We introduced our mascot, Sigma Sally, and had our own amateur program under the leadership of Em Cee Lamar Zimmerman. The prize performance of the programs was when "Rev." Senator Thompson tied the knot for the nervous bridegroom, "Little-Knees" Umstead, and the blushing bride, Carroll "Table X" Bradley.

We celebrated New England's super snow weather with a sleigh ride for our gang; and what a laughing, singing, riotous good time we had! And did we eat . . . Those open-air appetites beat anything!

L T A S I G M A

Our basketball teams didn't end up on the bottom of the heap! We gave good, strong competition with President "Fuzzin' Psh Posh" Haynes and Bill "MacKenzie" MacKay, our coordinator, both doing their part, with good cooperation from the rest of the team. The girls were not to be taken lightly and there was close, competitive spirit plus star material shown in their games.

We Sigma Sallies are not, however, all to ourselves in our activities. We're not hermits, no sir! In our annual program, we combined with the Sigma Delta Zeta Society to present to E. N. C.-ers on February 27 the great lovers of literature and history, with appropriate readings and songs. We put our own school in the catalogue by climaxing the program with the ideal E. N. C. couple — Floyd Flemming and Barbara Greene.

"Black and Red, Black and Red,
Sigma Sallies, go ahead!
Rah!"

The '47 football season provided many an exciting afternoon for E. N. C.'s gridiron warriors. Out of the rough, hard, strenuous scramble emerged a fighting Kelly Green and Gold team, the Zetas, to capture the title—with seven out of nine wins. Harold Parry, ace back, who was shelved by injury early in the season, returned to give the Zetas the needed push in the home stretch.

A hard-charging Kappa team took second honors in the league standing. Much of the Kappa success rested on Ken Fulmer's strong right passing arm. Every club in the league knew that they had been in a football game after meeting the boys who wore the Kappa colors.

Kappa

The Sigmas were the victims of an up-and-down season. It was this Red and Black outfit who spilled the champs twice. Their inability to win over the other teams proved disastrous. When the pressure was on, the Sigmas failed to come through.

The last outfit in the league, the Deltas, never did get going. Their only league victory came at the expense of the Sigmas. The Delta team lacked a capable passer to spark it. Experience will lift them next year.

Girls' Volleyball

The lassies of the Delta Society captured the volleyball crown this year. Led by that all-round athlete, Eileen "Pro" Albright, the girls had little trouble with the high-net game. The team dropped only one tilt.

The Sigma girls were the only ones to upset the Delta apple cart. Finishing second, the Sigma Sallies just about nosed out the other teams in the league.

The Zetas, featuring the net work of Peg Christensen, fought hard all the way. The Zeta Zulus were in the battle most of the time and came out on the short end in many a close game. The Zetas have a young aggregation and look like the giant-killers for future years.

The Kappas cut capers, but not in the right direction, for they ended up on the short side too many times. Marilyn Emery had a group of newcomers to work with this season. The experience gained will be a big asset for many a future Kappa maidens' volleyball team.

Winter

December — Sighs of “Only 25,000 more minutes—” . . . but oh, so much to do first. Strains of Handel’s Messiah reverberating from the chapel as the choirs prepare for the “big night” — then the performance itself, with the audience held spellbound to the final “Hallelujah!” With the arrival of the first snowflake came the Christmas spirit — this year the true one — sharing our blessings with those less fortunate — food for needy European and Oriental Nazarenes. Then the Christmas party . . . pretty girls bedecked in dollar-bill corsages from handsome escorts . . . stunts and games for all . . . brightly-decorated Christmas tree . . . oh, yes — food. Dreams of that long-anticipated trip home . . . So long, you empty classrooms and echoing halls — See you next year!

January — Christmas vacation over, we are back at school for a rest . . . unwanted Christmas gifts all exchanged at the store . . . New Year’s resolutions already broken. Rush to get term work in . . . The grim cloud of forthcoming exams hovers over the bright, snowy atmosphere. Exams — and we all acquire that “Blue Book” complexion . . . “Someone pass the aspirin, please!” Then the seniors off for Woodbound Inn in New Hampshire for chills, thrills, spills, and "yummy" food . . . blazing new trails on the toboggan — "Lean to the right!" . . . skiing for the first time — and maybe the last . . . moonlighted, torchlighted sleigh rides . . . sore muscles for a week. Sixteen snowstorms already—but let it snow! . . . There is always a basketball game or a parlor-date! The seniors away, registration of 39 new students unhampered . . . We're off to a fresh start . . . Hold on!

February — Mr. Groundhog crawled out of a snowbank to see his shadow — (note on the weather). Patricia Connor, noted concert and radio star from New York — her vibrant personality, winning way, beautiful voice, sweeping us (especially the Bachelor Club) out of this world.

Then our late winter revival with Dr. Corlett from far-off Idaho — his messages well-delivered, practical, and appealing. A leader of youth — acquainted with the problems of college young people . . . emphasis on deeper aspects of Christian experience. We give the glory to God!

Spring fever — I guess I have it — ah-h-h-h . . .

Honor to whom honor is due! Every college owes a debt to its honor students. No college can be accredited without standards; and no college can have standards without intelligent, earnest students. Every student who makes good at E.N.C. lifts the standard and the name of E.N.C. There is no one of us—student or faculty—who will not benefit from their self-discipline.

Their contribution is not spectacular. It is the steady day-by-day faithfulness, the genuine desire for knowledge, the serious purpose, the patience to see it through, the vision and courage to lay solid foundations. God lent them talents, and they have not despised His charge.

Grades alone do not guarantee success in life; more Phi Beta Kappas are out of Who's Who than in it. But true education prepares for service to humanity. By and large E.N.C. honor students are not "grinds." Our highest ranking students are our student leaders—in journalism, music, sports, religion. Many of them have earned a large part of their college expenses. They have taken time to build rounded lives. For this we thank God, and take courage for the future of our college and of our Dean's Honors List students.

Discussions of modern poetry, and correlated music and literature were enlivened by adviser Bertha Munro's singular comments. The club purchased a Shakespearean album and sponsored a tour of New England literary shrines. A "Johnson Club" meeting created an atmosphere of that famous intellectual circle of the eighteenth century. Officers were: Laura Jane Boyd, president; Peggy Christensen, vice-president; May Cornell, secretary-treasurer; and Greg Larkin, program chairman.

Under the direction of Roger Williams, president, and Miss Dygoski, adviser, the Speech Club sought to improve the fine art of communicating thoughts to others. Programs included a demonstration in speech correction and discussions on conversation and interpretation. Additional equipment was purchased for the department. Other officers were: Jack Fields, vice-president, and Audrey Ward, secretary-treasurer.

A better acquaintance with the customs and traditions of "nuestros vecinos buenos" is the goal of the Spanish Club. Vice-president Sarah Morales, a native of Puerto Rico, contributed much to the Latin-American spirit. The club sent Christmas gifts and letters to South American missionaries, subscribed to El heraldo de santidad for several families, and purchased recordings. Biology Club

To encourage activities in all fields of biology and to cultivate a deeper appreciation for the ways of nature are the primary objectives of the Biology Club. Adviser Babcock's creative ideas kept the club's program stimulating and practical. Among special events were a trip to the Blue Hills in November and a Christmas party at the home of the sponsor. The officers were: Paul Basham, president; Mary Melnick, vice-president; Mabel Tustin, secretary-treasurer.

Chromosomes . . . genes . . . antibiotics . . . chemotherapy . . . such interests of modern medical science inspired the Pre-Medical Society to sponsor trips to hospitals, to show movies of new technical developments, and to engage eminent men of medicine as guest speakers. These activities were directed by William Lusk, president; Robert Duke, vice-president; and Hazel Gavel, secretary-treasurer. Paul Gray was chaplain, and Dr. Shrader, faculty adviser.

At their meetings the Psychology Club performed practical experiments in lie detection, taste impulses, and word association. In connection with a definite study of abnormal individuals, the Club sponsored a trip to the state institution at Danvers, Massachusetts. They also examined mental telepathy, hypnotism, and "magic." The group was led by Robert Jones, president; Keith Smith, vice-president; Ollie Black, secretary-treasurer; Dr. Shields, Dr. Groves, advisers.

E.N.C.'s newest club was organized by Professor Naylor at the request of several students interested in mathematics. At a called meeting William Caldwell was elected president, Russell Bailey, vice-president; and Ardith Calhoun, secretary-treasurer. The twenty-eight members of this thriving club have as their aim the sharpening of wits and arousing new interest in mathematics.

With service as a motto and Scout Leadership training as an objective, the Rovers, under the leadership of Professor Babcock, spent several months building a cabin in the Blue Hills. It will be used by the Quincy Boy Scout Council for all training courses affiliated with the Council. Twice a month the Rovers met there for their classes. Frequently crew members spoke to Scout groups, and special speakers addressed the Rovers. Mates were David Andrews and Paul Basham.

Halls cleared, floors gleaming, curtains crisp, everything in its place—it's Open House! And one of the most successful events in years.

These activities, along with maintaining quiet study hours, enlisting the cooperation of the monitors, and arranging after-dinner prayer meetings, were all capably supervised by President Peggy Christensen.

Musical Organizations

"Music to the glory of God" filled the college auditorium on December 12, when a choir of a hundred and twenty-four voices sang selections from Handel's Messiah. This choir combined members of the A Cappella Choir, the Miriams, the regular church choir, and the Asaph Choir. The soloists were Grace Umstead, soprano; Mrs. Esther Williamson, contralto; Kenneth Akins, tenor; and Homer Smith, bass. The orchestra together with Professor Edith Cove, organist, and Mrs. Olive Marple, pianist, furnished instrumental accompaniment.

This spring the A Cappella Choir, the Miriams, and the E.N.C. orchestra presented programs of sacred and secular numbers.

Another organization which contributed to campus life was the twenty-five-piece school band, directed by Professor Andrew Rankin. Results of the regular Tuesday evening rehearsals were demonstrated at basketball games and at a spring concert.

Senior Recitalists

Memory takes us back to May 15, 1947, the date on which Christine Nease gave her violin recital, assisted by Louise Webster Schrag. Her performance of Correlli's Sonata and Brahms' Fifth Hungarian Dance was excellent. Mrs. Nease studied with Federovsky at the New England Conservatory of Music.

The first recital of this school year was that of Paul Yamada. The Canterbury Chapel was filled on December 5, 1947, as Paul endeared the beauty of Mallotte's music to the hearts of the audience. Grace Umstead was next on March 5, 1948. We shall long remember her rendition of "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark." Her assistants were Doris Lingford and Paul Yamada, with Mrs. Marple as accompanist. The final recitalist of the year was Doris Lingford, who, on May 4, 1948, made Lady Macbeth come to life before the audience in the sleep-walking scene. Clifford Keys and Grace Umstead assisted.

"N" Club

The '47-'48 "N" Club moved ahead in many ways. New projects were begun by the club that will materialize in future years. Funds were started for a clock-scoreboard combination and for glass backboards.

It was the "N" Club which secured the services of outside referees for basketball games.

New members are elected in the spring of each year. Basic requirements call for three semesters of college work, natural ability in all sports, sportmanship, and high character.

The Club functioned under the leadership of Bill MacKay, president; Fred Haynes, vice-president; Naomi Newton, secretary; and Alma Swenk, treasurer.

Boys' Basketball

Basketball for the '47-'48 season enjoyed one of its best years on the local court. From the start every team was in the race.

The Zetas, of championship caliber, were stocked full of good basketball material. The Green and Gold men employed a good zone defense and a fast-breaking offense.

It was the Kappas who provided the basketball show this season. Led by "Dead Eye" Ken Fulmer, the Blue and White outfit was a menace to all opposition. The Kappas used a four-man zone with a one-man chaser most of the way. Their offense, which improved with age, centered around Fulmer's over-all accuracy.

Kappa

The Deltas, after losing Duane Grimm at the first semester mark, settled back to be just an ordinary team until Steve Nease and Willie Scott joined the Delta forces. Then the Deltas resumed their spirit and gave each club a tussle.

The Sigma team came in for its share of victories. Somehow the Sigmas lacked the needed punch. The basketball quality was good, but the team didn't figure strong in the race. Carroll Bradley was the big offensive gun for the Red and Black. The Sigmas operated between changing-zone and man-to-man defense. The offensive operations were carried on by the typical fast-breaking style.

Girls' Basketball

This year the girls' basketball season was the best ever. Some nights the girls' games were the leading attraction.

The Sigma Sallies found the range early and moved into a comfortable lead. Under Alma Swenk's leadership, they were the outfit to beat because of their all-round teamwork. The Sallies can be proud of their record this year.

Peg Christensen, with Joan Carville's help, was the offensive gun of the Zeta girls' team. Janice Giles, the school's top-ranking guard, again proved to be a tower of strength. This Zeta team had the potentiality and used it to great success.

The Kappa girls played good ball this year. Sparked by Anderson, Emery, and Turner, the Kappa team proved to be in the fight all the way.

The Deltas, a team that found themselves floundering around at mid-season, caught fire when Anita White, a newcomer, joined the team. Again Eileen Albright had a big year—one night's work included 32 points for the lassie.

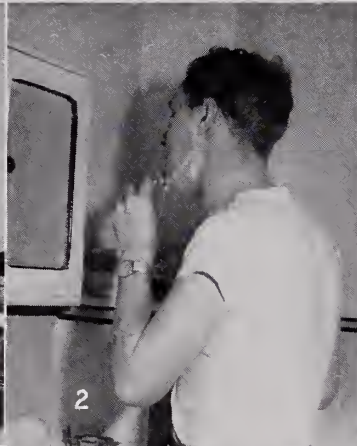

Two points!

at E.N.C.

1. Life begins at 6:06 (?) . . . 6:07 (?) . . .
6:09! Better hurry!
2. "Over cheek, over chin!
You've no time to rub it in—
It's Burma Shave!"
3. "If we walk in the light . . ."
4. Breakfast . . . He made it! Wet or dry?
Awake or asleep? Hm-mmmmm! Coffee cake . . . must be Monday.
5. Ad Building bound. Guess we're early.
Always time for a chat.
6. Quiz . . . oh, oh, where is he?
7. Chapel . . . a refreshing time with the Lord. Repeat the chorus without the instrument . . . "Even Me."
8. Whew! Classes over for another day.
The "bread line" . . . and then, where shall we sit?

9. Lab . . . the "home" of many of our "do-it-or-die" pre-meds.
10. "S'no" weather like the New England weather. Hit 'em again, harder, harder!
11. Dinner . . . Hurry up—maybe we can get seconds! . . . Oh, waitress!
12. After-dinner prayer meeting . . . where we pray for our college, community, loved ones, and missionaries abroad.
13. The evening routine . . . self-discipline
. . . What time is it anyway? Let's go . . .
14. To the Dugout . . . where we meet our . . . that's right—he's reaching for one.
15. Lights out . . . where has this day gone anyway? Tomorrow I'll . . . oh, well
. . . Ho, hum . . . zzzzzzzzzzz

Spring

March — Sudden thought — Spring is only 21 days away! The snow is at last melting — I saw a piece of bare ground yesterday. Athletic field looks like a swimming pool. Those mid-semester exams again . . . life is always upset by them! The seniors using up all their “pers” — and comprehensives only a month away. Oh, well, there’s Spring vacation in which to study! Now that the basketball season is over, Fine Arts programs are of the usual length . . . recitals . . . concerts. The ground broken for the Wollaston Church and Memorial Hall, the new boys’ dormitory . . . activity on both ends of the campus. Spring vacation — I’ll be home for Easter, for the first time in years. (How long have I been here, anyway?)

April — Ah, if only all of life were one long vacation, but alas — more books, professors, and the “new” look. Spring party — a new feature by Greene . . . love sprouting anew . . . a fragrance in the air . . . magnolia tree in bloom . . . everyone so excited! Campus Day — rakes and brooms, burlap bags and leaves . . . doughnuts and coffee . . . booby prize winners and champs . . . special desserts for the winners. “Play ball!” . . . first pitch of the season — “Ball One!” Suddenly the student political race thrown wide open . . . speeches . . . posters . . . and more speeches. Upperclassmen enjoying a week off for comprehensives. Come April 30, the juniors burst into their glory with a brilliant Junior-Senior Day performance, climaxed by a magnificent banquet . . .

May — Days that Chaucer would praise . . . all sunshine and lilacs . . . it's so hard to study—so to the lawn—so to sleep . . . The school year drawing to a close—but welcome, vacation! Finals descending upon us . . . we emerge . . . surprising!

Commencement season with all its fond memories . . . caps and gowns . . . final chapel . . . posing for pictures. Alumni Day . . . the classic ball game and the annual banquet.

To crown all, Commencement night itself . . . the solemn, stately march down the aisle . . . the scholarly address . . . handshake and sheepskin . . . flowers . . . gift from mom and pop . . . Congratulations!

Evangelistic Association

Christ, the keystone; holiness, the keynote; "the keys of the kingdom", her commission—these are the living factors embodied in the Evangelistic Association of Eastern Nazarene College.

The spirit of evangelism on the campus is reflected in the voluntary enlistment of half the student body in the Association, organized to promote active Christian work. The membership was divided into ten groups of twenty-five members. Each group had a leader who directed activities in missions, churches, prisons, and special services over much of New England.

The Association, led by Roy Carnahan, president, provided workers for six Boston missions, Quincy City Hospital, and an Industrial Home. In addition, home mission projects were either directly sponsored or supported with talent at Quincy Point, North Reading, North Weymouth, and Needham Heights. Three of these projects were pastored by ministerial students of the Association.

Professor Mel-Thomas Rothwell, adviser, has emphasized permanent results for the projects of 1947-48. Other officers included Floyd Flemming, vice-president; Marion Kish, secretary; and Paul Andrews, treasurer.

The Association also sponsored such on-campus activities as Friday night singspirations and Tuesday evening prayer meetings.

Chapel and

Chapel time

One of the most inspiring phases of college life is the daily chapel service. The keynote of these services was Dr. Young's repeated prayer, "Lord, keep E. N. C. a holiness college." Dean Munro challenged us to honor the symbols of E. N. C.: the altar, the Bible, and the professor's bowed head. Professor Lunn's message on "Worship" and Dr. Owen's exhortation to tarry until we really pray through stirred us deeply.

General Superintendent Williamson's timely message on the baptism with the Holy Ghost served to drive home the practical messages by Rev. E. E. Grosse. We shall all remember Dr. L. T. Corlett's lectures on holiness. Other visitors: Rev. Thomas Bridges, who told of Samson's tragedy; Dr. Lela McConnell of Kentucky, Rev. Aaron Meckel, Colonel Lindwall from the Philippines, Mrs. Mary Li from China, and Rev. E. R. Ferguson.

We appreciated Professor Spangenberg's story of Tony, the crippled street sweeper; Professor Goodnow's inimitable discourse on "Words"; Mrs. Nease's reminiscences of former days at E. N. C.; Dr. Groves' "Antidotes to Demagoguery"; Professor Rothwell's message on "Knee Action and Floating Power"; Professor Naylor's advice on "Perspective"; and Vice-President Mann's encouragement to struggling students.

"God is able," the challenge of a telegram received from Rev. Ernest E. Grosse, of Washington, D. C., our fall revivalist, sounded the keynote of the campaign. Spiritual victories crowned the scheduled services and reached into classrooms and dormitories. Brother Grosse will long be remembered for his clear, practical messages and his pithy epigrams.

Dr. Lewis T. Corlett, president of Northwest Nazarene College, delivered the annual Gould Memorial Lectures and conducted the winter revival. His scholarly presentation of truth and his intense interest in youth contributed much toward the success of these special services.

Student Ministerial Association

The "keys of the kingdom," given to the apostles, have been handed on until today the members of the Student Ministerial Association receive them as their accepted standard of service.

Under the guidance of Dr. Gould the association met monthly to discuss topics pertinent to the threefold calling of the minister as pastor, prophet, and priest. The members had the opportunity of counseling with successful men of the ministry who were invited to address the group.

The group had charge of one chapel service each semester, at which time letters were read from former members now in the active ministry.

N.Y.P.S.

Student speakers . . . musical programs . . . Armistice Day service . . . Christmas caroling . . . faculty wives' night . . . —these were but a few of the Society's inspirational programs.

The council was Conrad Stairs, president; Arthur Brown, vice-president; Harriet Dickinson, secretary-treasurer; William Grayson, chorister; Althea Merritts, pianist; Floyd Flemming, Laurence Mullen, and Faith Stevens, members-at-large; Dr. Gould, counselor.

Y.W.F.M.S.

The Y.W.F.M.S. is essentially interested in E.N.C. graduates now on various mission fields. However, through correspondence and lesson study, interest is maintained in all missionary efforts of the Church of the Nazarene.

President Marion Turkington led the group, assisted by Mitzi Eto, vice-president; Evelyn Brown, secretary; Laura Jane Boyd, treasurer; Mildred Groves, superintendent of publicity; and Nelda Vidt, superintendent of study. Mrs. George Delp was counselor.

Their key project of the year was aiding in a material way the African field with its fourteen E.N.C. alumni.

College Missionary Society

The paramount duty of the College Missionary Society is to keep the students cognizant of the commission "Go ye therefore . . ."

Led by David Andrews, president, the Society kept in touch with all Nazarene mission stations, conducted one chapel service each semester, and sponsored Thursday night prayer meetings. Their special project was sending food and clothing to England.

Other officers were Esther Dixon, vice-president; Margaret Lemon, secretary-treasurer; David Abel and Berge Najarian, representatives-at-large. Dr. Gould was faculty adviser.

Turning keys—opening doors:

In China

"Suffered the loss of all things." In China since 1916. On first furlough attended E.N.C.—Dean of Men. Both gracious, prayerful, humble, Christlike. Well-informed, large-visioned, full of faith and the Holy Ghost, Superintendent of the Nazarene work in North China, Prisoner of Japanese. Returning to China.

In Africa

"Bill and Margaret." Bill: Presbyterian, trained agriculturist, came to E.N.C. because of a Nautilus and Margaret. Sanctified wholly at the chapel altar. History major, B. U. Master, history professor and Dean of Men. Margaret: college nurse, English major. Both pure gold and solid character. Twenty years in Africa. District Superintendent and tower of strength.

In India

"Home missionaries first." Graduates of E.N.C., Willis singing and preaching all over the Eastern Zone, Mary (Jones) tramping the hills of Maine building a church at Union. God planned a missionary team: Willis quiet, steady, competent; Mary bubbling with enthusiasm. Pioneering, Bible school, village evangelism, jungle camp meeting, malaria, perilous ocean voyages. They learned here the courage that smiles.

In Peru

"Ock and Kitty." Catherine Anderson, daughter of veteran missionaries, with the merry smile and the fascinating enunciation "Gua-te-ma-la;" "Ock," popular reader of "Tony the Nazarene" with serious face and droll manner—and a steady purpose underneath. "Ock" studied Spanish—and Kitty tutored him. Deeply sincere and sacrificial, approachable, sensible—conducted Bible school in Peru, evangelistic tours, building programs, personal work. Returned with their three children for their second term.

SENIOR CLASS

"Dumb" but determined, "green" but great in spirit were the freshmen of '44. The Sophomore Gestapo was there to greet us in the usual way, and we learned 'tis best to obey. We took our turn as "Sophies" welcoming the lower classmen to our horror chamber. We were Junior busy-bodies. Our "Goodbye" showered with candy kisses, we saw the seniors leave on their sneak. In May we entertained them as Knights and Ladies at Longwood Towers. Now we are in the eve of our Senior year. Oh, what fun we had at Woodbound Inn! If only we could re-live our Junior-Senior banquet! Then suddenly we sigh. A feeling of joy creeps in as we remember comprehensives are over! The march down the long aisle has begun . . . We march into the future as E. N. C. graduates ready to do whatever is His bidding — "Not somehow but triumphantly."

JUNIOR CLASS

Banquet brain-work

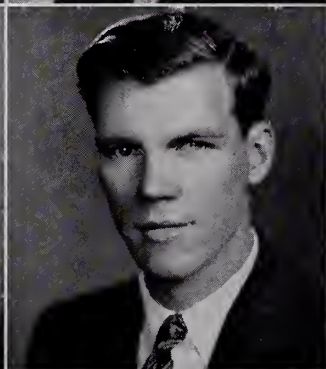

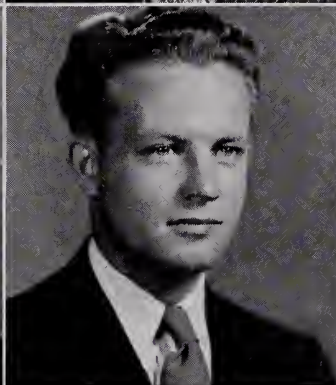

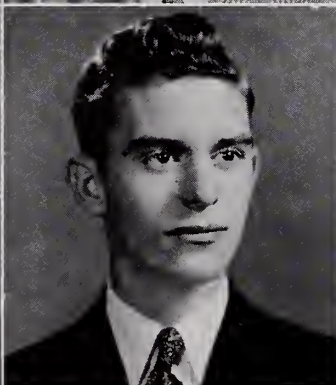

The flurry of activity, the friendly smiles of Christian young people, and the first day's assignments promised a full life for us as freshmen.

When we were sophomores a "rough box" incident thwarted our plans for deflating the dignity of the class of '50. Class prayer meetings gave us unity of spirit and a vision of future usefulness.

Now we're juniors—grown-up sophomores. We welcomed our weary superiors back from their trip with eats and "ceremony." Suddenly came the responsibility of Junior-Senior day with all its dues, programs, decorations, and menus.

With our year of entertaining over and only one year ahead of us, our motto still prevails: "For Christ and His Kingdom."

In Memoriam

JEAN NAYLOR

We shall always remember her jocund Oklahoma humor, her hearty laugh, her friendliness, and her love of the out-of-doors. We shall recall her sunny disposition brightening the Dugout, the classroom, her home, and our lives.

We shall remember because she has made a lasting impression on us who knew her best and observed her courageous walk with Jesus. Some of our most cherished memories of E.N.C. embrace her and her constant smile. She taught us more clearly that "... to live is Christ, to die is gain."

Yes, we shall remember our Jeanie as more than a fellow student, more than a loyal friend—as a living, everlasting testimony to the keeping grace of the Lord Whom she loved and served and Who, on September 2, 1947, placed in her outstretched hand the "Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven."

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Blue Hills Trek

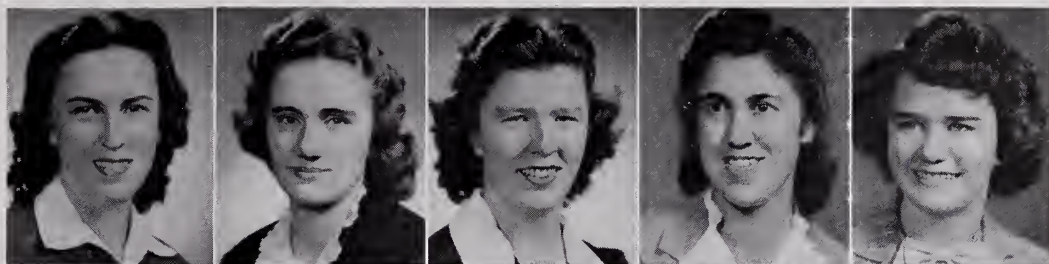

This year the traditional freshman initiation was led by King Sophomore and his men. It was during this warm "Royal Welcome" that we became acquainted with our future chums as they displayed their talents before the Sophomore Court.

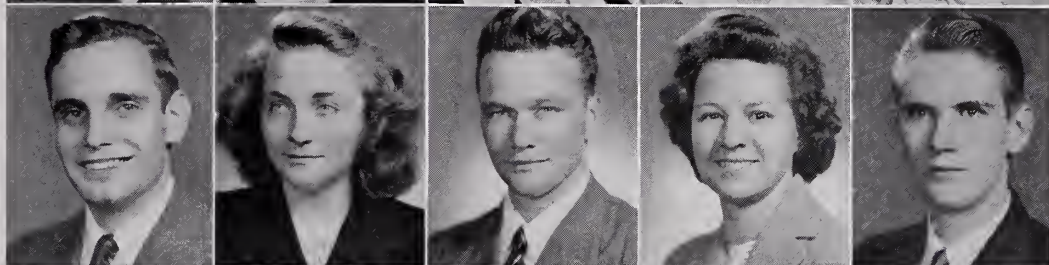

With plenty of spirit and enthusiasm, the sophomore class enjoyed its fall outing in the Blue Hills. At sundown we left our games to enjoy hot dogs and apple pie around a roaring blaze which only partially shielded us from the cold November winds.

Well attended prayer meetings characterized the spiritual emphasis of our class. Those precious times of communion will never be forgotten.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Penny-pusher

Warmth of faculty reception . . . tortures of initiation . . . spirit-filled prayer meetings in the Canterbury . . . these are but a few memories of a full, successful freshman year.

As E.N.C.'s largest freshman class, we entered whole-heartedly into every phase of college life. Freshman athletes were outstanding on the football field and basketball court, two of them becoming members of the All-Star Football Team. The Music Department—choruses, band, and orchestra—welcomed freshman talent.

With enthusiasm we pushed aside our books and joined the sophomores in an unforgettable autumn outing in the Blue Hills.

Under God's leadership we face our future college years confidently.

Church Ad

The students of Eastern Nazarene College are indebted to the constituency on our educational zone for their loyal and sacrificial support of our Alma Mater. It is here that future preachers, teachers, laymen, and missionaries are preparing for service to our Master and His church, and thus to society and the world.

Through the Nautilus we have tried to show you the spirit of sincere religious zeal which underlies our studying and other activity. The key to E. N. C.'s purpose is to keep alive in a world of unrest, faith in Christ and the enduring values of life.

You, our churches and evangelists, have made the 1948 Nautilus possible. We are proud to represent you and trust that your investment in this edition will be profitable in a practical way.

A direct translation from the original Greek in readable modern speech. Scholarly and reverent, yet with a clarity and simplicity that could result only from its every-day idiom. Widely used and recommended for the fresh insight it gives into the meaning of the scriptures. Faithful scholarship from two of the world's most distinguished biblical authorities. Easy to read with clear, attractive type running the full width of the page. Fifth revised edition.

OUR CHURCH IN MONTREAL SERVES over one million people, three fourths of whom are French speaking; it is the second French city of the world, and the largest and most famous inland seaport.

FROM THIS GREAT CENTER we are responsible for spreading Scriptural Holiness to over 4,000,000 French Catholics in 26 cities. The city of Quebec, with 136,000; Verdun, with 75,000; two cities of 35,000; five cities of 20,000; fourteen cities of 10,000; and hundreds of towns and villages covering some 625,000 square miles. The population is ninety per cent Catholic. Truly this is a foreign mission field as much as South America, Peru, India, China or Africa. Won't YOU pray the Lord of Harvest to send forth laborers into this vast and needy field?

THE GREAT PROVINCE OF QUEBEC, IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA, SENDS FORTH THE MACEDONIAN CALL, "COME OVER AND HELP US."

vertising . . .

The 1948 Nautilus is proud to represent those business concerns who have so willingly and substantially supported our publication. As students, we appreciate their friendly and reliable service.

We sincerely trust that they have found a clear warrant for their support in the patronage and the friendship of the members of this institution. The business concerns who have subscribed to an ad have been carefully selected and can be recommended whole-heartedly to the constituency of the college.

Let us show our appreciation to these business men by friendship and habitual patronage.

We Acknowledge . . .

Our thanks to Mr. Paul K. Blanchard of the Warren Press for his pleasant manner, his personal interest, and, above all, his unsurpassed skill in bringing our yearbook to its final fruition.

Our appreciation to Mr. Verrill Carter of the Roberts Engraving Company and to his co-laborers for their excellent photo-engraving work.

Our indebtedness to Mr. Carmelo Ianello of the Harvard Studios for his unassuming, patient manner, and for his expert photography. Your grin is appreciated, too, Charlie.

Our over-all appreciation to the many others who should have their share of the honors. To these, to the student body, faculty, and administration of Eastern Nazarene College . . . a big "thank you."
